Economic Update

The RBA August meeting minutes released on the 21st August reiterated that there are no plans to adjust monetary policy in the near term and that the next move, when it comes, would probably be an increase. Current market pricing reflects this view. Some commentators are now forecasting the RBA to remain on hold until at least 2020.

As discussed in a recent article by our Chief Economist for Asia Pacific Robert Carnell, the US Federal Reserve is likely to hike rates again in September and then again in December, as the US economy continues to strengthen.

Did you know?

The ING International Survey headed 'Mobile Banking 2018' found that more than half of the surveyed respondents cited that automated reminders or notifications helped them manage their money. Out of all the surveyed questions, 80% of the respondents answered "very" or "somewhat" useful for post-payment balance notifications. The research shows that people typically like to be in control of their money hence they are more likely to welcome these reminders.
