1. MetLife's Occupation Classification Guide

This guide offers occupational category ratings for a variety of occupations based on the Living Super occupation classifications referenced below for Tailored cover. The occupation list is divided into industry and occupations, deemed to be the most commonly disclosed over the previous several years. It contains various professional, administrative, skilled and unskilled occupations and also captures high risk occupations. As not all occupations are listed, there is the provision to choose 'Other'.

Occupations are based on duties performed, rather than by title. Some occupations are rated based on the qualifications obtained and given duties, for example surgeons, general practitioners, architects and engineers. If the applicant's occupation is not listed a similar occupation with the same duties performed may be selected. Alternatively, the applicant's occupation may be disclosed under 'Other' (not listed) in eApply for the underwriter to assess individually based on the applicant's performed duties.

Description of occupation classifications

Occupational Category		Occupational Categorisation Description
Professional	PROF	Restricted to certain medical, legal and executive professions generally requiring university degree or equivalent qualifications.
White Collar	WC	Generally administrative office based duties performed, not necessarily requiring a university or other degree based qualifications.
Light Blue Collar	LBC	Generally light manual duties performed or trade qualified workers in a supervision role overseeing other trade workers for majority of their working day.
Blue Collar	BLUE	Moderate to heavy manual duties performed, including trade qualified workers and certain unskilled workers.
Referred to Underwriter	RUW	Occupations that are deemed high risk due to the nature of the duties performed and/or as a result of the environment in which they work. In most instances, these occupations are referred to the underwriter for individual consideration for Death & TPD cover and not available for Income Protection Cover.
Decline	DCL	Certain occupations, in conjunction with the nature of duties performed, may also be associated with adverse lifestyle or work environments. The mortality or morbidity rate is deemed too high for these occupations, making it difficult to quantify the risk. In these circumstances, the underwriter will decline the application for insurance.

2. Occupation Restrictions - Total and Permanent Disablement Exclusions Applied to Automatic Cover

Under Total and Permanent Disablement (TPD) cover, no benefit (or refund of premium) will be payable if the event giving rise to the claim is directly or indirectly a result of the Covered Person working in an occupation (at cover commencement):

- At heights above 15 metres;
- Underground in the mining industry;
- While carrying a firearm;
- With explosives;
- Offshore in the oil, gas or petroleum industry; or
- In the armed forces.

This means no benefit (or refund of premium) will be payable under TPD cover.

4. Medical/Health Guide

Our preferred model is for all products to be underwritten by an automated underwriting engine (AURA) with referral made to underwriters for further assessment only when a final decision cannot be reached by the engine.

The engine is capable of making a standard and substandard decision, including a combination of both loadings, interim accident cover exclusions and decline. In cases where the applicant does not have existing default Automatic cover and their application requires further assessment, Interim Accident cover will be offered to the lesser of $1.5 million or the death and/or TPD cover applied for. Interim accident cover will end upon the earliest of a number of events occurring. Please refer to the Living Super Product Guide for more information.

If the applicant has default Automatic Cover, applies for Tailored Cover and is declined, they will remain on Automatic Cover.

Some applicants will be referred for further assessment by an underwriter. Primary factors in underwriting risk assessment are personal and family medical history, occupational duties and location, avocation and pursuits, residency and travel intentions, as well as other special factors such as 'moral'/lifestyle risks. In conjunction with possible mandatory requirements, underwriters have to make a judgement call as to what evidence needs to be obtained to fully assess a risk. The underwriter will assess each case on its merits and decide on the most suitable underwriting approach. One scenario may be sufficiently assessed via tele-underwriting, whilst another might require a report or other written documentation from applicants, doctors or other third parties.

To make technical underwriting assessments on personal and/or family medical histories, the underwriter in most instances refers to the reinsurers' manuals. Consequently, any medical underwriting decisions should be primarily based on the relevant reinsurance manual. In particular scenarios, deviation from the manual is reasonable based on supporting evidence and the underwriter will usually discuss the best outcome with the reinsurer in these instances, subject to the amount of cover applied for.

Depending on the benefit type, substandard terms could entail premium loadings (permanent or temporary) and/or exclusions. Offering terms at other than standard, is legally considered to be a "counter-offer" made to the applicant and requires his or her approval before cover can be put into place.

In conjunction with any application older than three months, updated information may have to be obtained from the customer, either in writing or over the phone (our preferred option). Underwriters have some discretion in this regard as customers have been previously advised of their Duty of Disclosure, which extends until a final decision has been assessed.

Automated Underwriting Rules Engine Approach

The automated rules engine has proven to facilitate speedy processing of insurance applications and reducing the number of referrals to the underwriters. Subject to the amount of cover applied for as to whether further medical or financial evidence is required, the engine currently makes decisions for mild to moderate risk disclosures, for most medical conditions as well as lifestyle and past times, without the intervention of an underwriter. MetLife continually endeavours to provide effective cover to all eligible applicants.

Height/Weight BMI

Before the applicant applies for insurance online, they will need to know their height and weight.

An ING applicant may be accepted via the engine, with or without a loading for certain BMI ranges provided there are no other loadings or exclusions applicable. The BMI ranges from 18 to 33.9 for females, and over 19 to 33.9 for males.

A BMI of 34 or more may warrant further requirements; generally this includes a medical exam with MBA and hepatitis B & C serology. The latter is done to exclude hepatitis as a cause, should liver function test values be elevated.

Applicants who are significantly underweight need to be further assessed. This would usually include those with BMI below 17. Again, as with overweight lives, there needs to be attention paid to any other features that would be consistent with an applicant being underweight.

Recent weight loss - There are some additional considerations for applicants who have lost weight recently, but their previous weight would be significantly more substandard. Achieving permanent significant weight loss is difficult and with this in mind, it is best to not to reduce the loadings to the current weight achievement level until around twelve months has elapsed. Alternatively, there may be an option to add back half of the weight loss to any BMI calculation.

A weight loss that was not intended would require investigation as there may be an underlying condition, which could be a serious health issue.

Bariatric Surgery also referred to as gastric banding/bypass, gastroplasty or weight loss surgery; procedures of this type are generally carried out in cases of severe obesity (BMI >35 as per the above scale) combined with associated cardiovascular complaints such as type 2 diabetes or heart disease and where diet and exercise alone have proven ineffective. Weight loss is promoted by physically restricting food intake by narrowing part of the stomach or, in some cases, interrupting the digestive process. Guidelines regarding recent weight loss should be followed. However, we would not wish to consider cover for a minimum of six months to a year from the date of surgery, depending on the product and in some cases, the type of procedure.

High Blood Pressure

Before the applicant applies for insurance online, they will need to know their last reading taken within the past 12 months.

Blood pressure is the force of blood pushing against artery walls. Blood pressure is at its highest when the heart beats (systolic) and the lowest when the heart is at rest between beats (diastolic). It is generally accepted that blood pressure should be around 120/80 or lower and when the level stays high at 140/90 or more, then it is considered high. AURA considers the last reading taken within the past 12 months, balanced against treatment, smoking habit and for females, if currently pregnant.

High Cholesterol

Before the applicant applies for insurance online, they will need to know their last reading taken within the past 12 months.

Cholesterol is a type of fat (lipid) in the blood that is produced by your body. Your body makes enough cholesterol that is needed for your cells; however, you can also get cholesterol from the food you consume. Your cholesterol levels can also be affected by your age, BMI and family history.

Too much cholesterol will start to build up in the arteries and can cause blockage. A high cholesterol, in isolation, won't make a person feel sick. The only way to know someone's cholesterol levels is by having a blood test. The blood test will measure all the fats in the blood, including the LDL (bad cholesterol), HDL (good cholesterol) and triglycerides (stored and used for energy). Cholesterol levels help doctors to determine whether you may be at risk of heart disease or stroke.

High cholesterol (in isolation) is usually assessed by type of treatment and the effectiveness of treatment based on the most current reading result taken within the last 12 months. When referred to an underwriter for a history of elevated cholesterol, the underwriter will assess based on the applicant's merits.

Asthma

Before the applicant applies for insurance online, they will need to know the severity of their condition and treatment types taken such as Ventolin, steroid bronchodilators inhalers or oral steroids. If hospitalised, when was the last visit and how often hospitalised for asthma.

Asthma is a condition of the airway branches (bronchial tube) which carries air in and out of the lungs. During normal breathing, the muscles surrounding the bronchial tube are relaxed and air moves freely. During an asthma attack, the muscles are tightened causing the airways to become narrow, the lining of the airways to swell and more mucus is produced, which is thicker than normal, restricting the air flow.

Asthma can vary in severity from mild to severe; this normally determines the type/s of treatment needed to prevent and control attacks. When assessing asthma sufferers, consideration is given to the severity of the condition and other triggers that may also cause an attack such as the applicant's work duties, work environment and smoking habit. For certain scenarios and applicable cover, a loading is usually applied, however generally for severe asthma, TPD and IP is not considered.

Diabetes

Before the applicant applies for insurance online, they will need to know, if applicable, whether they suffer Type 1 or Type 2 diabetes, the date initially diagnosed, and the HbA1c reading result taken in the last 6 months.

Diabetes is a long-term (chronic) condition in which the body loses its ability to control the level of glucose (sugar) in the blood. The pancreas cells that produce the hormone insulin, helps the body to convert glucose from food into energy. People with diabetes either don't have enough insulin or their body cannot use insulin effectively, so glucose stays in the blood instead of being turned into energy, causing blood sugar levels to become high. The diabetes types are: type 1 diabetes (IDDM), type 2 diabetes (NIDDM), gestational diabetes and other diabetes.

There may be secondary complications associated with people who suffer diabetes such as: stroke, heart and kidney disease, nerve, blood vessel and or vision damage.

When assessing someone with diabetes, consideration is given to: type of diabetes, current age, date of initial diagnosis, result and date of the last HbA1c, smoking status and the cover type being applied for. Generally for substandard offers, a loading is applied as exclusions are deemed not appropriate due to the complex nature of this condition.
